Equalization Of Education

THE NEED FOR THE EQUALIZATION of educational opportunities is frequently brought to the attention of the public and there are few who do not recognize the importance of this subject. There is no reason why children who live in the thinly populated parts of Canada should have fewer educational opportunities and advantages than those who are born in the cities. Yet it is true that for the most part there is a marked difference between the city schools and those situated in small rural communities. In critical times such as these in which we are living today, the need for leadership in all lines of endeavour has been clearly demonstrated. Canada, while continuing to need leadership and the services of citizens with training and ability in the years to come. Ability is not confined to one section of the country or of the population, yet there are not now equal facilities for education throughout the country.

The question of education was discussed recently in the Canadian House of Commons, and at that time Finances Are An Obstacle — it was pointed out that this, as in many provinces, is now facing financial difficulties. Figures showing the present expenditure for each child between the ages of five and nineteen years were given, and these revealed that the highest per capita outlay for education is in the province of Ontario, where the rate is $46.87 each year. The lowest expenditure for this purpose is in Prince Edward Island, where the rate is $14.29. The figures for the Western provinces showed that in Manitoba the rate is $35.37, in Saskatchewan $22.85, in Alberta $39.41 and in British Columbia $40.61. The average for the whole of Canada is calculated to be $33.00 per child.

The figures were compared to the recommendations of the Canada and Newfoundland Education Association, which suggested $67.00 per child each year as the necessary expenditure to ensure a desirable standard of education in all parts of the country. This would mean a doubling of the present amount which is being spent for this purpose. There is also need for extensive capital expenditure for buildings, equipment and teacher training. Difficulties in the way of securing funds for such an educational programme would be many, and assistance from the Dominion government would not doubt be required. There are many urgent demands on public funds at the present time, but the importance of investing in the training of the children who will bear the responsibilities of citizenship in the years to come should be neither minimized nor overlooked.

Hollywood To Produce Film In Heart Of Canadian Rockies

Hollywood moves to Jasper National Park in Alberta, when Paramount sends a company and production crew totalling 150 persons to this famous resort in the heart of the Canadian Rockies—the largest National Park in the world—to film exteriors for "The Emperor Waltz", a gay production with a background of Vienna and the Tyrol.

Bing Crosby and Joan Fontaine, who will star, head the cast at the Jasper Park location.

The Jasper region was selected by the studio because of its scenic beauty and will be filmed in technicolor for the picture. Paramount's experts considered Jasper National Park in the world's most beautiful spots on the only mountain and lake area on the continent to compare with the Tyrolean Alps, which is the locale of the sequences to be filmed.

Suggestion Is Made For Increase In Allowances

Suggestion that allowances paid Canada's diplomatic representatives abroad be increased was advanced by Senator Thomas Vien (L-Quebec), at a meeting of the Senate external affairs committee. Senator Vien said there was a feeling on the part of some members of Canadian missions that they were unable to meet the obligations of their position with the present allowances.

Norman Robertson, under-secretary of state for external affairs, who was before the committee as a witness, said he agreed they should be in a position to meet obligations. In some countries difficulties had been experienced in putting representatives in a position to meet rapidly increasing living costs.

OUR COMPLETE SHORT STORY— JUST ANOTHER EVENING

By EULALIE WEEKS

Copyright Wheeler Newspaper Syndicate

"LISTEN, the more you do for people, the less thanks you get! In other words, my friend, if Connie has gotten herself into another mess and thinks little Miss Mary is going to come to the rescue, she's all wrong."

"Not be a suk, Mary! You'd have a good time. Connie says this chap is really keen."

"Then why isn't Connie keeping her date with him?"

"I told you! This other fellow that she says she's really in love with just got back. Bill and I will be there and the six of us could have a swell time."

"Not me. I'm tired of blind dates."

"Why are you still carrying the torch for that soldier?"

Mary's heart always did a double-flip at the very thought of "that soldier". Nancy was referring to two years before when Mary had met Mark Hemming at a party and danced with him practically the entire evening. Was it possible to fall head-over-heels in love with a person and have that person not respond at all? She thought Mark had been sharing her and yet, when it came time to part, his leave-taking had been usual not even with mention of writing. The next day he went overseas.

"Quit your day-dreaming!" Nancy interrupted. "Be a sport, Mary, and come along tonight."

"Do you know the other men? What's Connie's beau like?"

"I have no idea. You'll come?"

Mary resigned herself to another evening.

As the girls watched the approach of these escorts, Mary's expression of unconcern changed to one of shocked incredulity! Introductions were just a blur until the words "Mark Hemming" started her heart racing madly. Automatically, Mary moved to meet Mark but he was blocked by Connie who, linking her arm in his, exclaimed:

"Let's go, Saturday night, and not a minute in it!"

So Mark Hemming was the man Connie had chosen as her own! Mary blushed at the awful hands she had almost made and resolved to be lively and gay, regardless of how she felt. When she caught Mark staring, she was thankful she was able to smile back amiably. When the couples started to exchange dances, she managed to avoid dancing with Mark, contented all her attention on the chap called Jimmie. Dancing with Bill, she was amazed to see Connie and Jimmie waiting for her, unconcerned mutual pleasure. The flirt that Connie was! How could she be so heartless to Mark if she expected to win him? Nancy's suggestion that they freshen their "warpaint" came as a welcome relief to Mary and, besides, the boys were beginning to argue the case and cut in on their engagements or marriages. They left the table just as Mark stated firmly: "No man had a right to involve another person before he went overseas."

No, thought Mary, you might have been added to me if you hadn't been smart. . . .

At the girls applied lipstick, Connie said to Mary, "you didn't want to come, eh, Mary?" I must say you seem to be enjoying yourself! You're trying so hard to make a hit with Jimmie you must like him."

"Oh, he's alright."

"Well, I like that!"

"What's the difference whether I like Jimmie or not?"

"What's the difference? It just happens to be the man I intend to marry!"

Mary was stunned. "But you're with Mark!"

"Don't be silly! I paired off with Hemming to make Jimmie jealous. I saw Mark only once before in his life—he's O.K., but Jim's the boy for Connie!" Mary's head was pounding. "How did Mark happen to come?"

"Don't you remember we met him at a party a couple of years ago? He called at the office—said he remembered where I worked but couldn't find any of the other girls."

"He said that?"

Mary was practically shrieking. "Is he your secret passion? What a coincidence!"

"What are you two talking about?" Connie demanded.

Nancy tried to explain.

Why didn't he say he wanted to find you?" Connie asked Mary. "He kept trying to say something about a brunette with blue eyes."

Mary didn't wait to hear more from Connie, but with a gleaming smile and sparkling eyes she made her way back to the table.

"I'd like to dance with you now, Mark Hemming. . . . This has been postponed long enough!"

In the shelter of Mark's arms, Mary felt that he knew that something wrong had been made right and that he, too, agreed there would be time for explanation later. 2673

Canadian Collieries Show An Increase In February

Canadian collieries produced 1,638,333 tons of coal in February, an increase of nine per cent. over the 1,504,759 tons mined in February, 1945, the Dominion Bureau of Statistics reports. January output of 1,816,640 tons had shown a seven per cent. gain over the like month of 1945.

February output included 1,067,191 tons of bituminous coal, 367,413 tons of sub-bituminous coal and 173,729 tons of lignite coal. Alberta produced 831,352 tons; Nova Scotia, 455,612 tons; Saskatchewan, 173,729 tons; British Columbia, 154,316 tons and New Brunswick, 23,294 tons.

Imports totalled 1,302,801 tons, compared with 776,770 in February, 1945, while exports amounted to 43,656 tons against 72,203.

Canada's Farm Lands

Some Interesting Figures Given By Agricultural Economics Office

Although Canada has a land area of 3,666,566 square miles, only about 549,060 square miles, or 18 per cent., are presently occupied as agricultural land or have agricultural potentialities. Some 2,600,000 square miles of that area is in farms. The other half includes large areas that are in forest, or are in the hands of the government. Canada experiences a marked increase in population or greatly expanded export markets.

The above figures and prospects for additional settlement were given recently by Dr. J. P. Booth, of the agricultural economics division, Dominion Department of Agriculture, at the Chicago conference on farm tenure. —Kitchener Record.

GARDEN NOTES

Spread Out Sowings

Perhaps the two commonest mistakes of the average gardener, especially the one of limited experience, is not planting far enough in June and early July. During the first warm weeks of spring practically every human being has the urge to get out and dig. Hence the seedlings are planted in a whole lot of things which should never be planted until the soil and air warm up permanently.

When this course has been followed there are usually heavy losses. Some mistakes are made. Some things like peas, grass seed and a few of the other harder flowers and vegetables don't mind quite a lot of cold and wet, but with the great majority of plants this is not the case. Many vegetables especially must be grown quickly if they are to be tender and crisp, and there is nothing to be gained by rushing the season.

This too-early planting, also, has another disadvantage. Usually all seed or sprouts are used up too soon and if weather is favourable the result is too many vegetables ready for the table in July, not nearly enough coming along in August and September. The experienced gardener never sows that much seed in June at least. He divides his seed into at least three sowings, making the first a little ahead of the regular planting time, putting in the second about the normal time and saving the last until at least two or three weeks after that. With a bit of luck this will give him a continuous supply of the very freshest vegetables right through the season.

Cultivation Important

Cultivation in June will kill weeds which might become really troublesome in July, and it will break up the soil which would be hard and be impossible to work after the sun really turns warm. If the lawn is kept regularly mown in June at least once a week in the most parts of Canada, you will really be taking something worth taking the neighbors out to see for it. The old warning of a stitch in time saving nine really holds good for gardening too and especially so with such jobs as weeding, cultivating and thinning and, last but not least, spraying in steps against disease or pests.

It is wise, say the professionals, to have some really prepared dust or spray materials handy. These should be used at the first sign of damage. Indeed with some things like potato regular dusting or spraying in advance of the bugs is strongly recommended.

A Great Chance

Immigrants From Europe Could Do Much With Vacant Farms

One of the most pathetic sights in Manitoba is the abandoned farm. We have many of them, monuments to something. Saskatchewan has more and there are others in Alberta. Something must be wrong somewhere on the problem. Maybe the provincial governments overlook the farms, or, like the people, do not know the why of the desolate farms, loaded with growth and weeds, empty of trees and dwellings. Even Ontario supposedly a banner province, acknowledges eight thousand vacant farms. It would be a great revelation to all Canadians today if Norwegian, Belgian or Dutch were recruited to enter this Dominion and to take over the vacant farms. And what they would do with them would be a better lesson in agriculture than any college could give to young workers of the soil.—Brandon Sun.

There is plenty of space in Canada for business expansion and economic exploitation. But within the boundaries of these parts the landscape must remain as nature left it—lavinate and unspoiled by any new boundaries of our parks the land-owners in the march of time. That perhaps is one of the main reasons why, especially in recent times, the national parks have become such popular recreational areas. People who prefer a quiet peaceful holiday find sanctuary in these parks—sanctuary from the noise and bustle of the busy working world. The national parks system of Canada now extends from Nova Scotia to British Columbia and covers a total area of 20,000 square miles. These parks represent one of the most interesting developments of national ownership yet undertaken in this country.

Cartoons have long been familiar to all movie-goers, but few of us realize the immense amount of work involved in making them. It is a slow process, demanding numerous careful drawings to create a smooth effect. On a recent trip to the National Film Board, we dropped in to see the animation department in operation. They were at work on a new cartoon, the script of which called for a man running down a street. The background of houses and shops along the street was painted on a large card. A series of drawings of the man in different stages of running were prepared on a set of celluloid cards. These celluloids were placed over the street background card, and the background could, of course, be seen through the celluloid. The animation camera photographed a frame of the man in one position, the celluloid card was changed so that the man in the next position, another film frame was photographed, and so on, until the man had run down the street. While the celluloids were being changed, the large background was being changed, the large background was moved very slightly in the opposite direction to the one in which the man was running, to help create the illusion of movement. The same painstaking effort goes into every action a figure or an object makes in a cartoon, but despite the hours of work involved, artists find their work fascinating.

A Welcome to War Veterans

This department, on behalf of the Line Elevator Companies sponsoring its work, welcomes to the great agricultural community of Western Canada, the hundreds of ex-servicemen who have already been established on farms in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta under The Veterans' Land Act. We also welcome those members of the armed forces who have recently returned to their own farms in the Prairie Provinces. We wish you good luck and complete success in all your agricultural undertakings. Farming is more than a business, it is a way of life. Centuries ago, Cicero, the great Roman statesman and scholar, described the vocation of agriculture in these words: "Of all occupations from which gain is secured, there is none better than agriculture, nothing more productive, nothing sweeter, nothing more worthy of a free man." No wonder so many of Canada's war veterans, the men who sacrificed so much for the cause of freedom have chosen, or are choosing, farming as their post-war occupation.

After World War I the writer served as a Field Supervisor with the Soldier Settlement Board, and helped to establish many returned men on farms in the Old-lushful district of Alberta. He has, therefore, an appreciation of the agricultural problems that confront newly-established war veterans, and would welcome enquiries at any time.

The main lines of work of this department are: (1) Consulting service, (2) Land and Labor advice, and (3) Publications. All war veterans are welcome to these services without charge. They have only to apply to local Line Elevator agents or write to Line Elevator Farm Service, Winnipeg or Calgary.
